Pronunciation Guide

This is a simplified guide to help you read and pronounce Hepburn Romaji (Japanese written with English letters.)

There are five main vowels in spoken Japanese:
A: ah as in father.
I: ee as in eat.
U: oo as in boot, but without puckering your lips.
E: eh as in pet.
O: oh as in toe, but without puckering your lips.

These vowels, in conjunction with other consonants or by themselves, form syllables. Japanese syllables are said in equal lengths and tone, and are generally shorter compared to English vowels. Also, mouth movements should be slightly restrained. Avoid moving the corners of your mouth as much as possible.

Two of the same vowels (Aa, Ee, Ii, Oo, Uu) creates the same sound but is spoken at twice the length. Ou is the equivalent of Oo, and Ei is the equivalent of Ee. The vowel combination Ai is similar to a long i as in idol.

Consonants are written phonetically with a few exceptions. Tsu sounds like a cross between the sounds ch- and sue, but without puckering your lips. Fu is pronounced like who, without puckering, and with the front teeth close to the lower lip. The R consonant is pronounced similarly to an L sound, but without as much force, and with the tongue flicking, not rolling, against the roof of your mouth instead of your teeth.

Compound consonants such as Ky-, Ny-, My-, Ry-, etc., are not individual syllables, as Y is not a vowel. For example, Kyu should be pronounced like cu as in cute, not kee-yoo or kai-yoo.

The syllables Shi, Ku, Bu, Pu, Su may be pronounced with de-emphasis of the vowel, especially when they are the last syllable of a word. For example, Doushita (what's wrong?) may be pronounced doh - SH - ta.

The special consonant N/M is pronounced like ng as in song. For example, Konbanwa (good evening) should be pronounced kohn - bahn - wa.

Double consonants often signify an extremely short silence, a pause between the previous syllable and the next. For example, the word Gakkou (school) should be pronounced gah - |pause| - koh.
