the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are aged 65 and over has increased from 10.5 million to 13.5 million (15.5% of the population).

There is a growing awareness of the need to address the needs of older people, and the Government has set out a strategy for the 21st century in the White Paper on Ageing Better: The Government's Strategy for Older People (Department of Health, 1999). This strategy is based on the following principles:

- (i) Older people should be able to live independently and actively in their own homes.
- (ii) Older people should be able to live in their own communities, and be able to participate in the life of their communities.
- (iii) Older people should be able to live in good health, and be able to enjoy a good quality of life.

The White Paper also sets out a number of key objectives for the Government, including:

- (i) To ensure that older people are able to live independently and actively in their own homes.
- (ii) To ensure that older people are able to live in their own communities, and be able to participate in the life of their communities.
- (iii) To ensure that older people are able to live in good health, and be able to enjoy a good quality of life.
