Pleased to meet you, Kurotsuki here.

Firstly, to you who inadvertently finds in their hands this cursed grimoire which should never have been brought into existence in this reality, my supreme gratitude...

Okay, toning down the chuunibyou a bit,
I have to say I'm dead beat tired.

This is the first doujinshi I've released. It's also the first time I've given it my all and drawn a manga. It's been such a massive piece of work I made myself sick. The deadline this time was really tight, and being a green, inexperienced novice I had no idea about the right way to do manga or sound effects or anything else, so please don't judge it as harshly as you might.

Participating in Comiket is my dream!
I've lost the Comiket lottery several times over,
but this time my chance has finally come!

This too is all thanks to Ogu-sensei.

Everyone buy Ogu-sensei's books too, okay? ♡

The truth is, this is totally different from what I first drew. So many pages of rough draught got thrown away, and somewhere in the middle of drawing, things just got out of control.

Next time will definitely be the real deal!

(None of the characters appearing in this book are human. They are all something else wearing human skins. Possibly vampires, possibly slime monsters, who knows... regardless, the stuff in this book is dangerous so please don't try it at home!)
