Why is everyone not in the usual maid outfits for the evening?

Yes, what is it?

Say, butler?

Yes, the master ordered that all the maids below keepers be required to wear it.

It appears that they are the work clothes for today. However... are there really aprons in Japan?

No, it's fine. It was Father, was it not?

Well, Father isn't one to mind the details.

What is your opinion, butler?

About those clothes?
Let's see. They don't feel formal but are eye-catching so I believe they are fine.

.....

I see.

And that finishes my patrol ...

It's about time I go sleep too.

Even though I put it on thinking I would show you ...

What is it with these clothes !

Y-You're late ♪

Milady !?

No, you might have been found like this if you put it on beforehand ...

I wanted to try wearing this so it's fine. That is... I wanted you to see.

Since I don't understand how Japanese clothes are made too well either.

Ah, milady.
If you move so much it'll come off again.

Isn't it cuter than a dress?

What do you think?

You bring too much of an air of class to the clothes that it cannot be thought of as those of a servant...

Nghh... even though I'm clearly wearing servant clothing!

In that case...

I shall serve you!

FuFu...
You smell of sweat.
So you haven't
