sigh Thanks for helping me back then.

Yes.

Oh, are you studying?

Oh, are you having a break too, Nomoda-kun?

I'm single, so that's not a problem...

Ah... haha...

Well, I could take orders for people like them...

Doesn't your boyfriend tell you to stop working in customer service?

I often get stubbornly asked "what school do you go to?"... and given pieces of paper with contact details on it...

What a pain!

Hey Nomoda-kun, what are you going to spending your pay on?

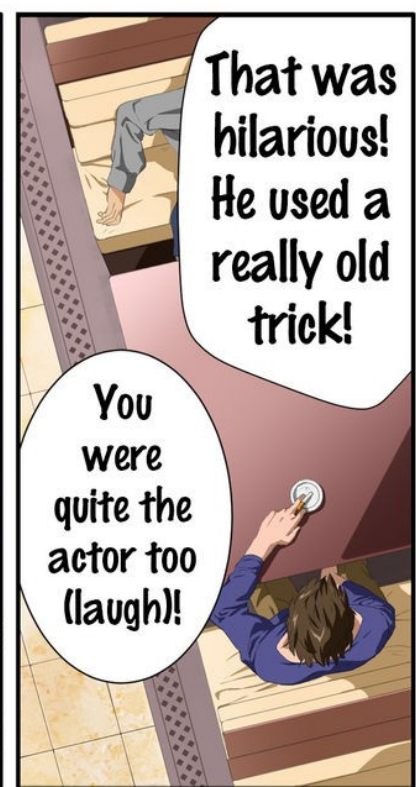

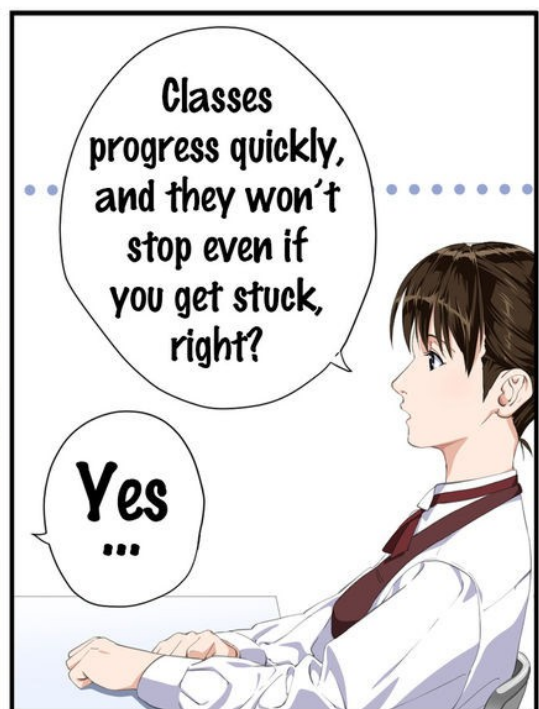

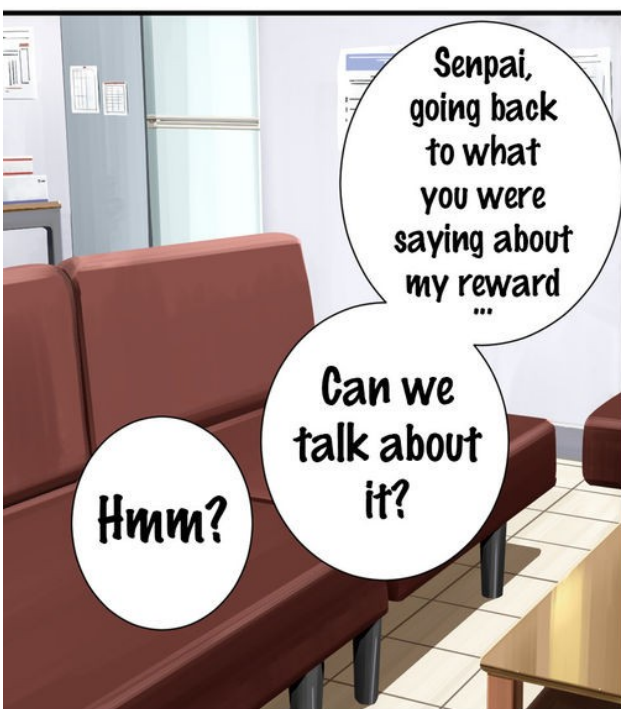

Haha, you're exaggerating things... But I might think of something.

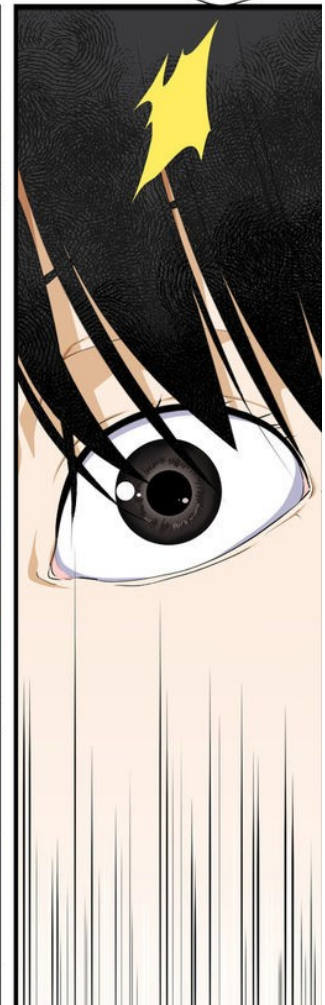

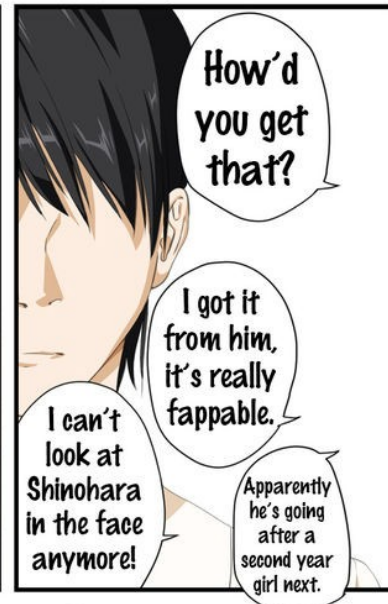

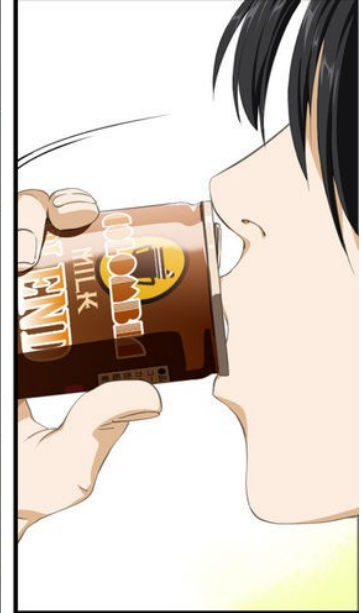

But really, thanks Nomoda-kun.

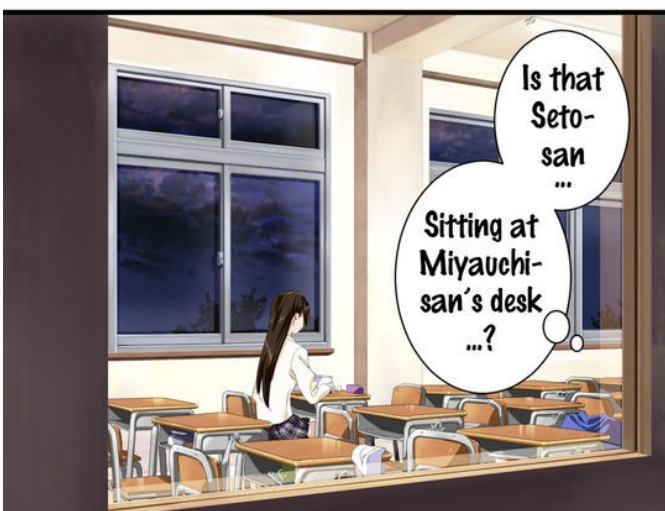

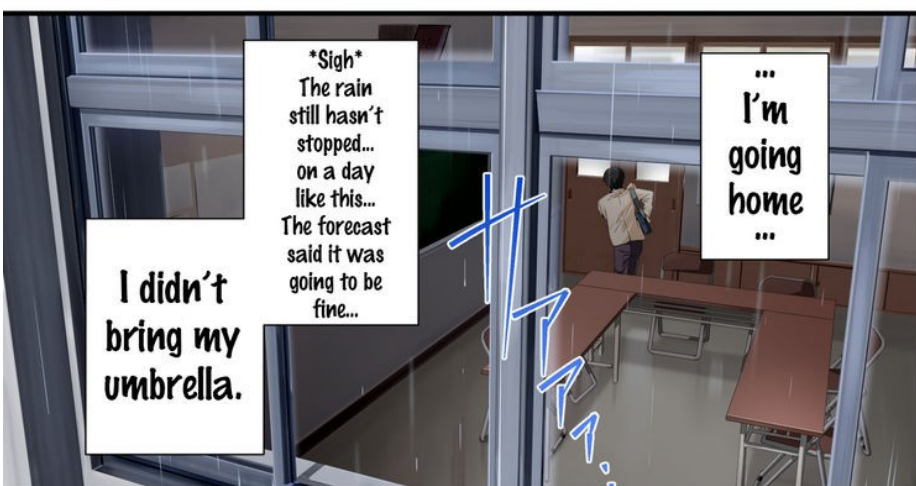

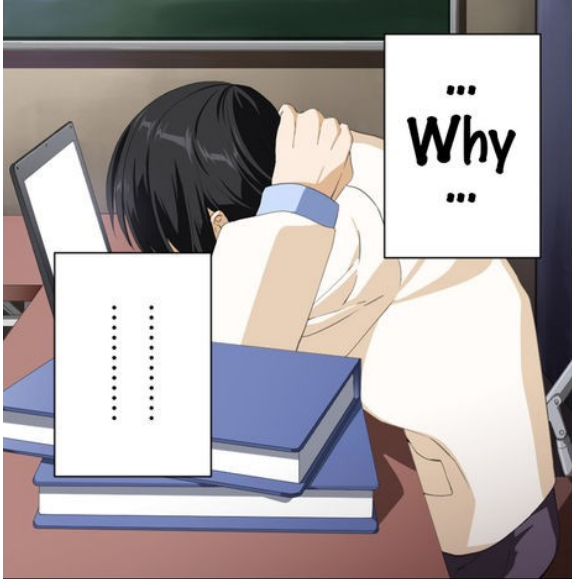

In return, if there's anything you need, just ask. I'll try to my best to help!

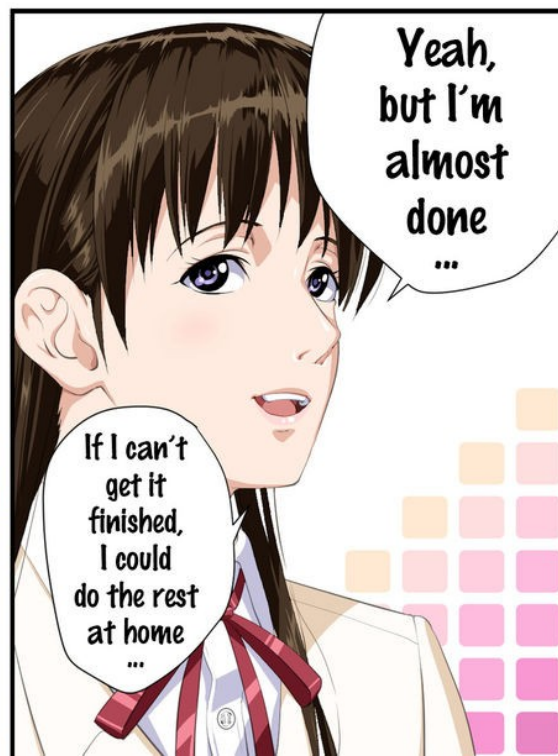

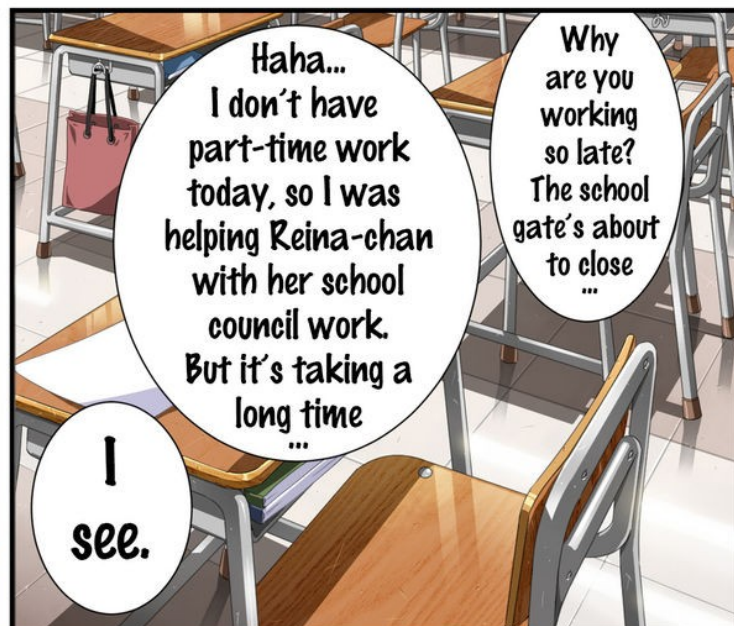

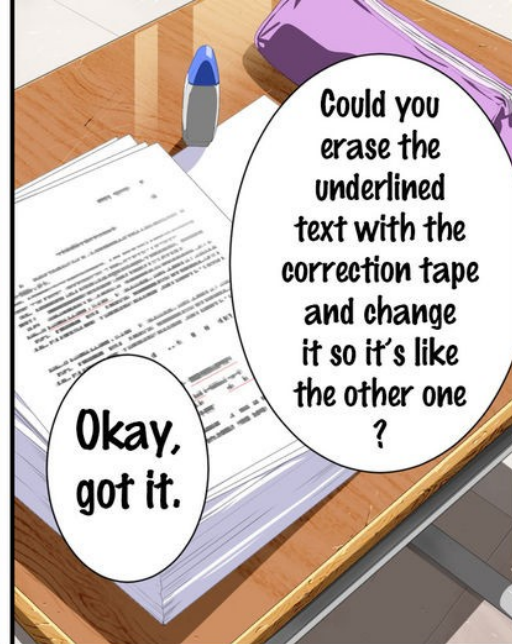

Hmm... Is that so?

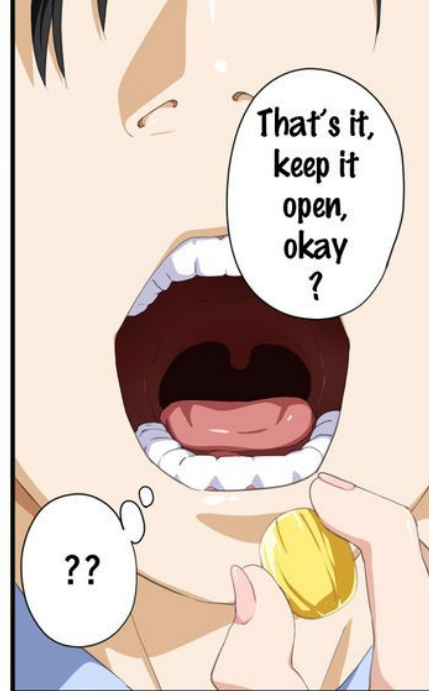

Hm ...

Oh, I was sorting documents for the council as well ...

So why were you staying at school so late like me, Kinoshita-kun?

It stopped raining before we realized.

Yeah, you looked really pale, so I was worried ...

I-I looked sick ...?

You weren't looking well since lunchbreak ...

But you seem fine now.

Huh?

Haha ... It's because I spent time with you, Seto-san.

"Seems you're feeling better now," huh? Haha... It's because I spent time with you, Seto-san.

Was she looking at me...? That's embarrassing ...

But... It seems you're feeling better now... I'm relieved.

Ugh !!

Apparently Mom's coming to take me
home tonight,
so I'll see
you later,
Kinoshitakun.

Okay,
see you next week.

I think the sine and cosine theorems will be in the test, but you should be fine as long as you know the formulas.

Now, let's move onto chemistry.

Okay.

From the part about ionic bonds.

$A+B+C=180^\circ$ So...
The answer is 15° .
Is that correct?

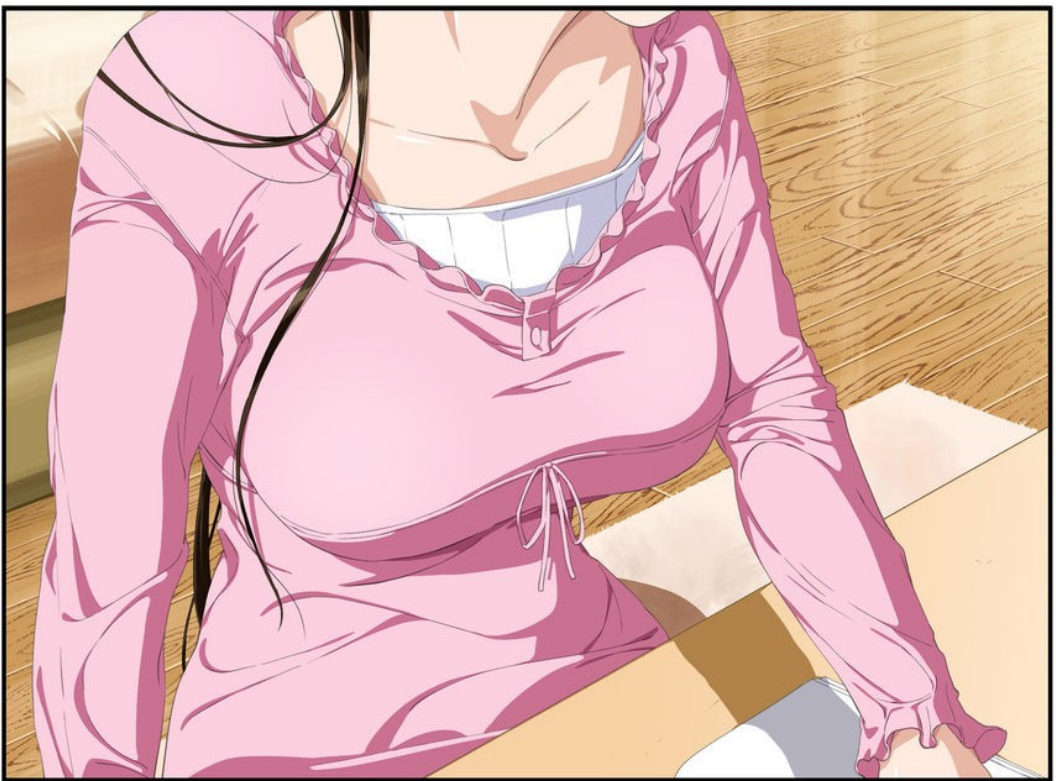

Yes, that's right.

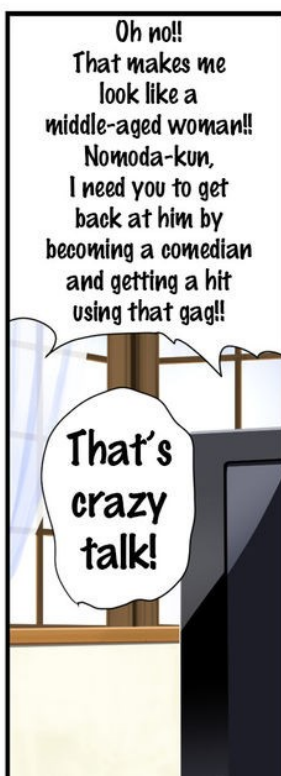

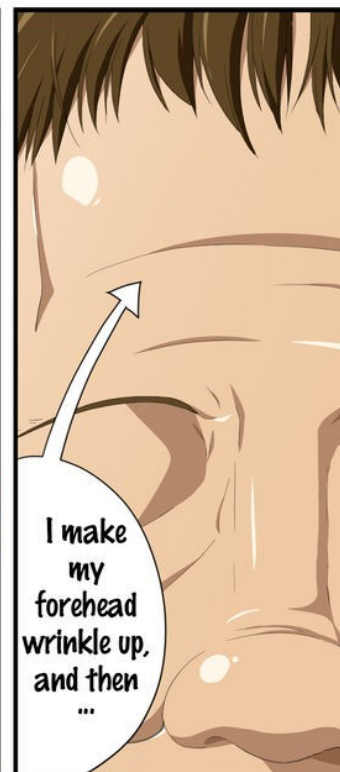

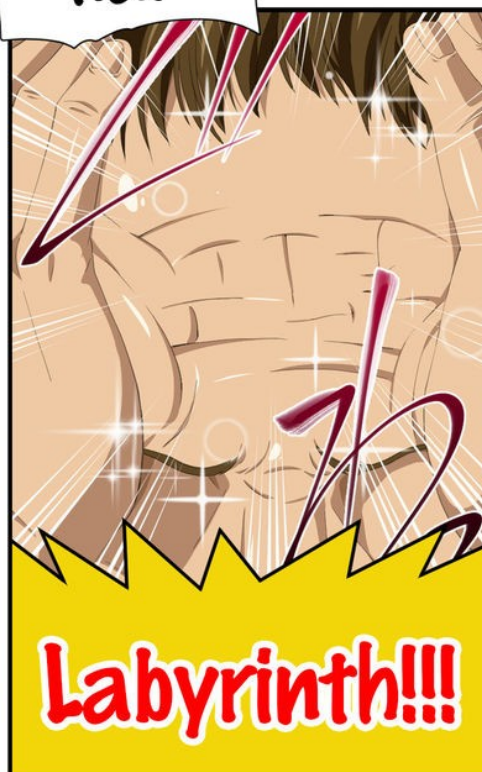

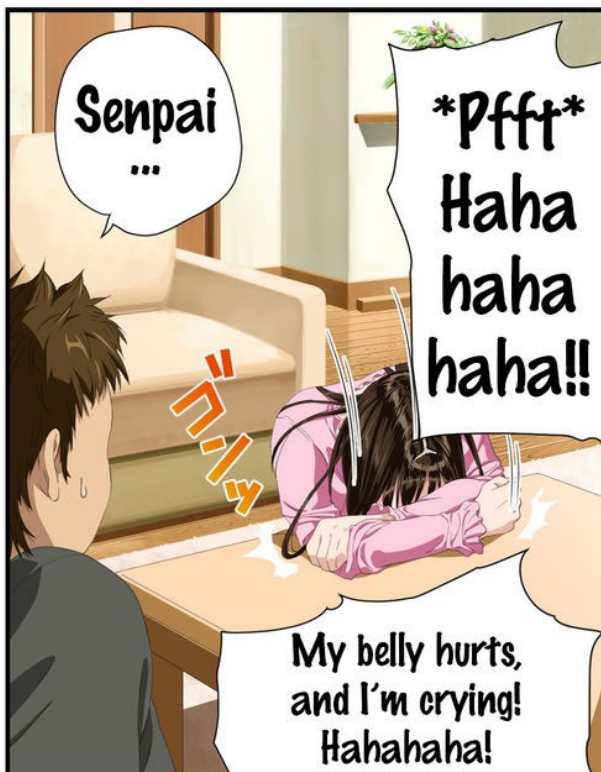

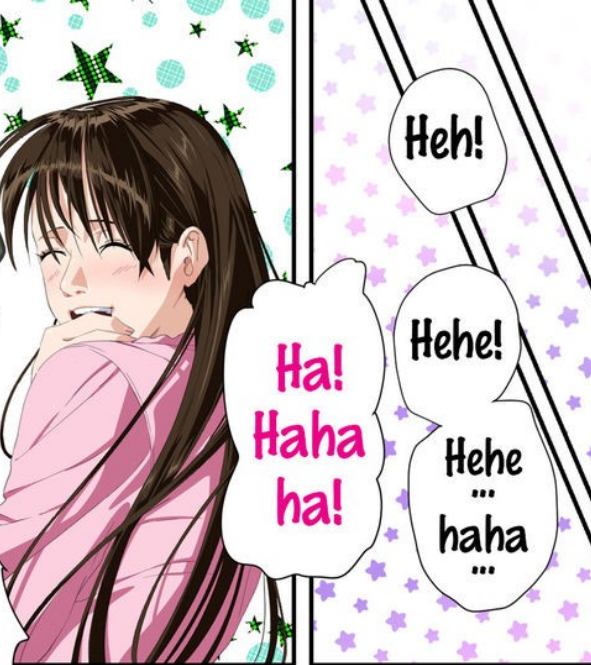

Okay, let's try solving example problem 155 on page 82. We're given the lengths of sides B and C as well as A, the angle between them...

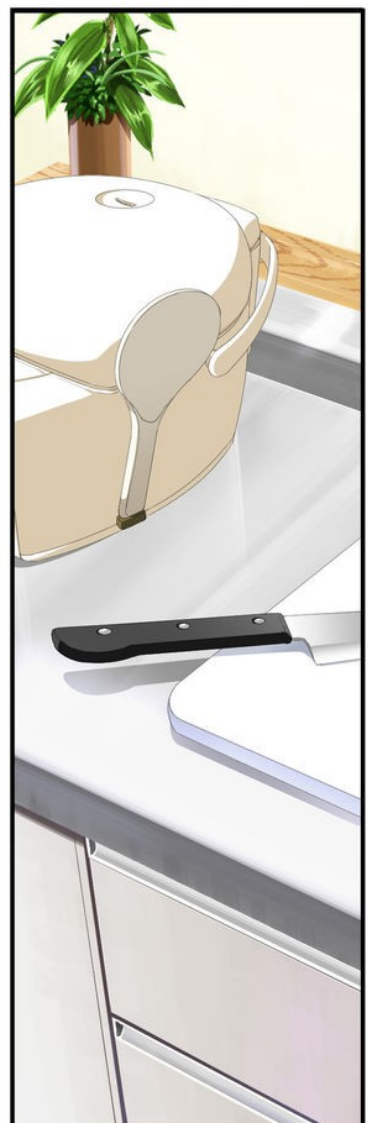

Um, so I substitute it into the cosine formula... and first find A...

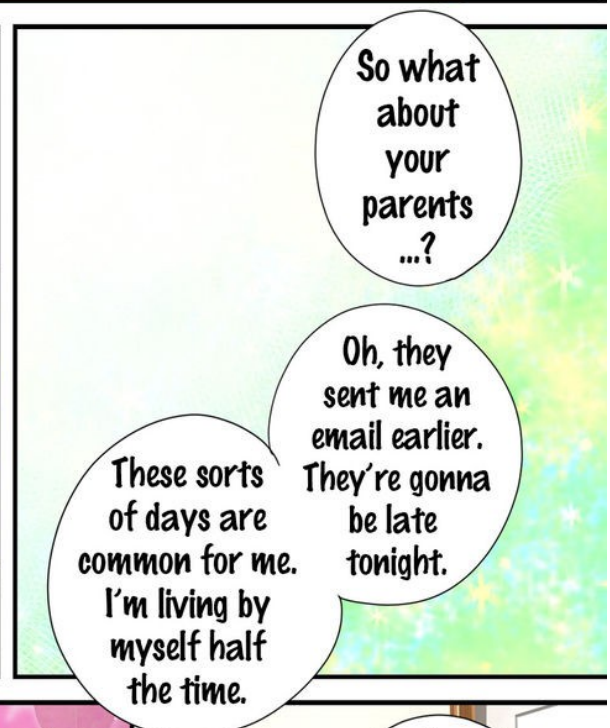

That's it. And then you use the A you found to find B. Are you okay with all this? Once we know B then you can find the remaining C.

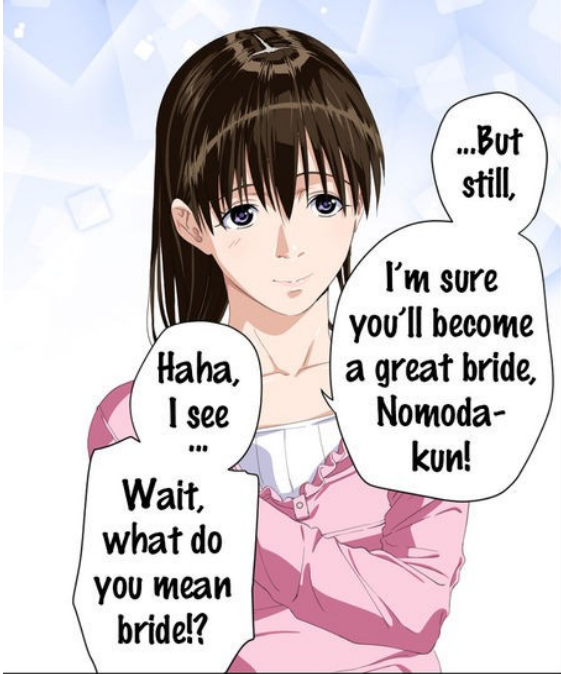

Okay.

Haha, I see ...

Wait, what do you mean bride!?

...But still,

I'm sure you'll become a great bride, Nomoda-kun!

It's like we're newlyweds!

Pfft

Don't say that! It's embarrassing!

It's nice, isn't it ?

Hmm ?

To sit at a dinner table together and relax like this ...

There are many sides to people, huh ...?

At first I thought you had a nasty look in your eyes and seemed like someone who's hard to approach ...

Sorry, don't get angry, okay?

Oh, I get that a lot.

Heh, I keep getting surprised when I talk with you, Nomoda-kun.

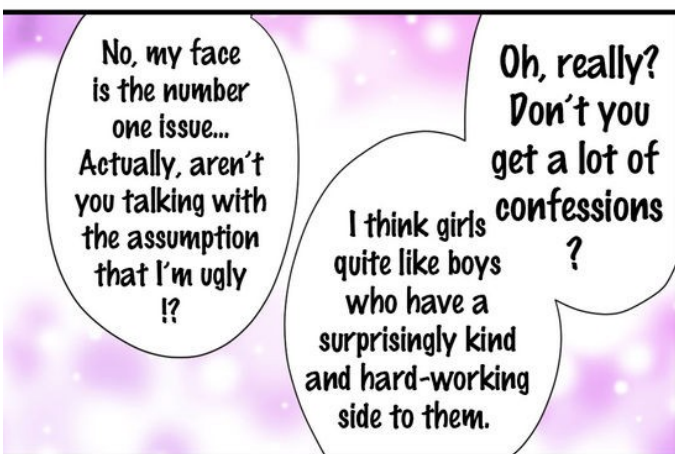

Why ?

But there won't be many boys your age who can do housework and cook like you.

Aww,

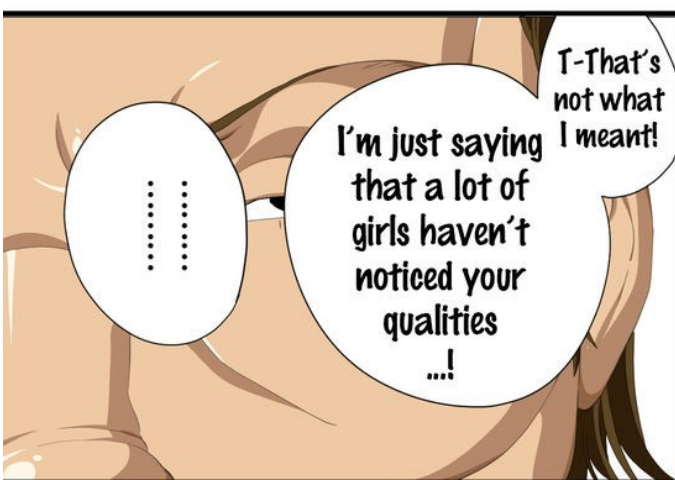

... Guess I'll take that as a compliment.

No, my face is the number one issue... Actually, aren't you talking with the assumption that I'm ugly !?

Oh, really? Don't you get a lot of confessions ?

I think girls quite like boys who have a surprisingly kind and hard-working side to them.

I-That's not what I meant!

I'm just saying that a lot of girls haven't noticed your qualities ...!

I'm not used to having a girl at my house so I'm feeling nervous.

... Don't think so.

Nomoda-kun ...

You're actually popular, aren't you ?

If you're that pretty, you must be really popular.

No way ...

Me?

Never mind me, what about you ?

But having a beautiful girl like you tell me that gives me confidence.

Hey, it's unfair to answer like that !!

I... don't dislike you ... I guess!

Then what do you think of me ?

What kind of guys do you like?

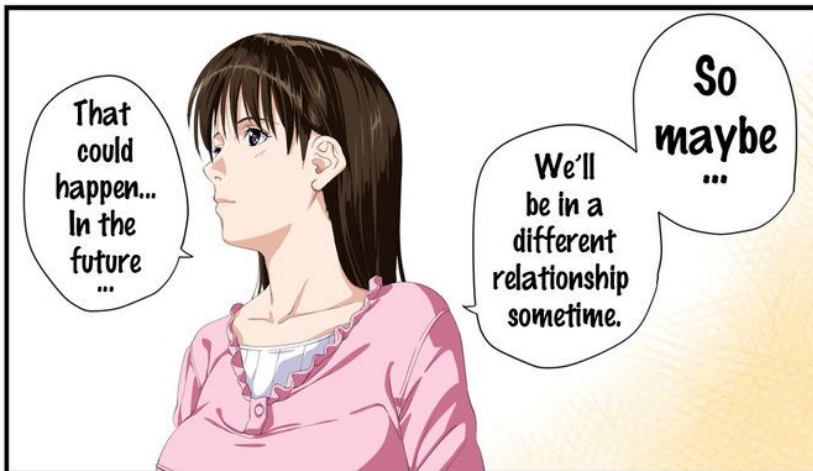

Hmm... as long as he's not too weird ...

Umm ... I'm pretty dull, so ...

You've got the pick of the litter, right?

That could happen... In the future ...

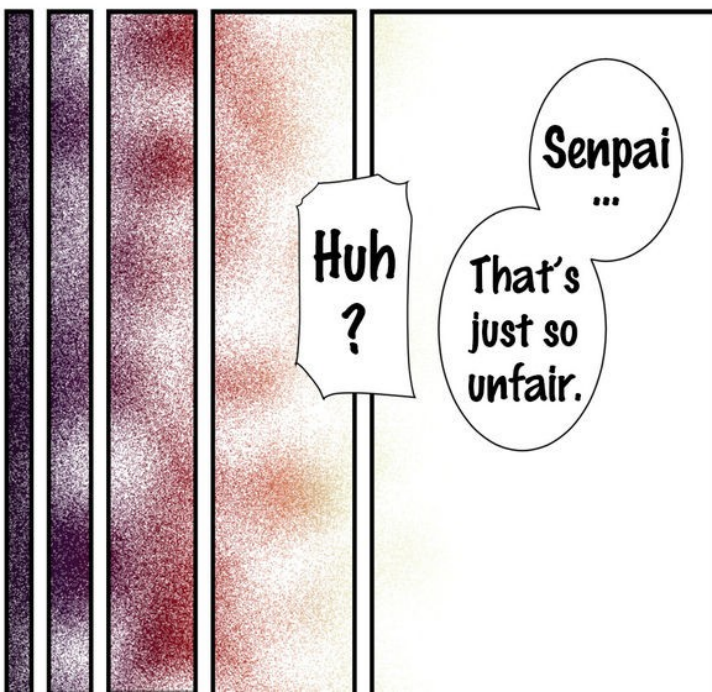

We'll be in a different relationship sometime.

So maybe ...

I'm really surprised. You really can't judge a book by its cover. People have many sides to them ...

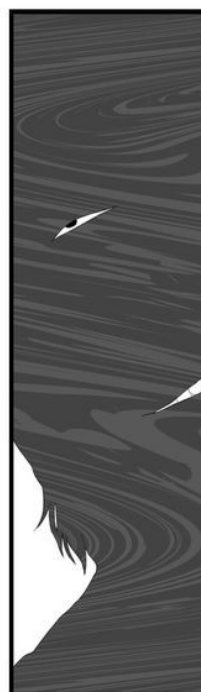

But Nomoda-kun, I never thought I'd talk and spend time with you like this ...

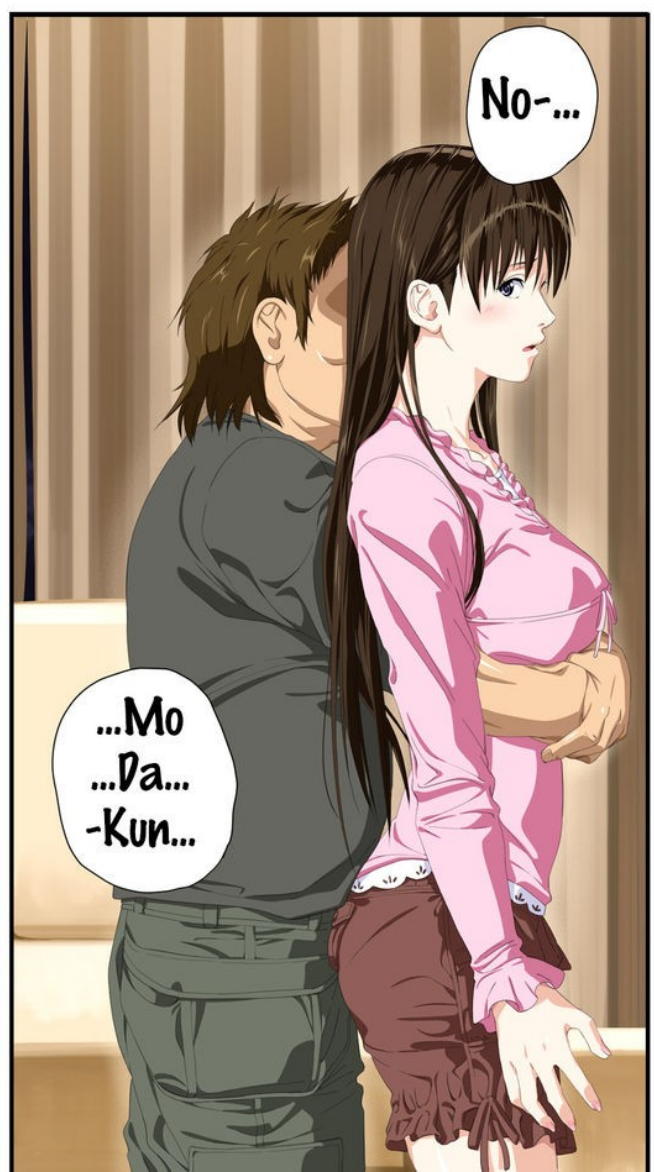

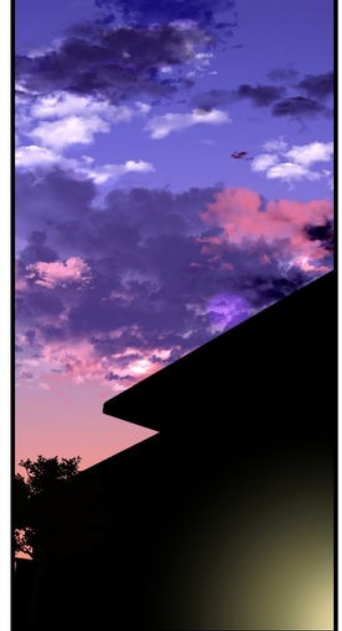

Huh ?

Senpai ...

That's just so unfair.
