In a certain kingdom ....

For he was brave, valiant, bright.

His very soul was firm and inquisitive.

There was a commander

Admired by all

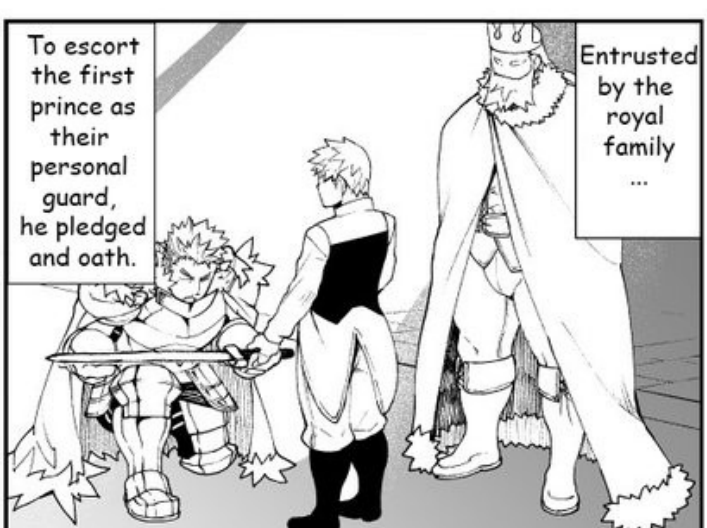

He stood in enemy's way, fearless and without escaping; uncaring of the enemy's strength.

And so, many legends were born.

He brought absolute peace to the people.
He was a true hero for all.

And received the unwavering faith of his men

To escort the first prince as their personal guard, he pledged and oath.

Entrusted by the royal family ...

Was caught by bandits ...

But that very hero ...

And fell into this pitiful state.
