About one month ago.

I first met her

NOTHING! IT'S NOTHING!!

Woosh Woosh

Later, upon asking her story,

I found out her name, Uzura,

and that she was an oni, one that went on a rampage long, long ago...

When I was outside, cleaning the back yard, a person suddenly fell down from the mountains right in front of me.

Their clothes were tattered and their body ragged.

At first, I could do nothing but stand there in shock.

but, due to her wounds, exhausted her energy in the mountains.

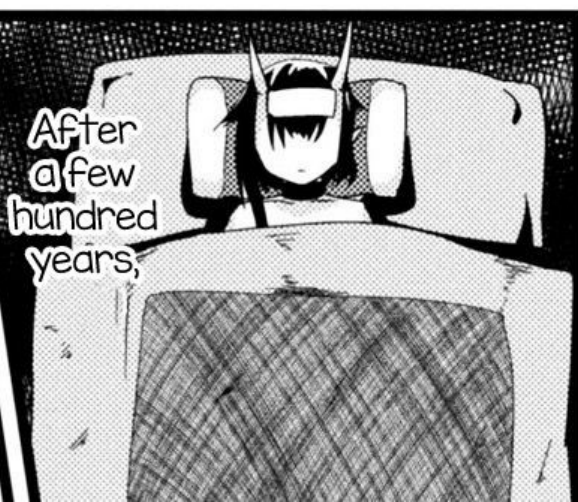

Uzura managed to get away with her life,

However, the onis back then were exterminated.

An incomplete revival, as she puts it...

she regained enough energy to make it to the part of the mountains behind my house.

After a few hundred years,

But... no matter how you look at her, Uzura isn't human.

I thought onis were make believe creatures from the past.

Unroll

I couldn't leave her alone.

Not only that...

She was so ignorant of human society!

I'M GONNA START...
