Introduction

■ Takase here! Thank you very much for picking up a copy of "Kanzen Nenshou 4.25".

■ This time, for some reason I decided to do a sequel to a rather disappointing copy-book I had previously done. It wasn't because I just didn't want to draw different characters though...

■ Like the previous issue, this one is meant for a select group of people (an audience with a certain preference...), so be careful of your surroundings when you read it. laugh

■ Lately, I haven't been making a decent living...so, I don't know if this is the right time to release this kind of book. I apologize to Ashi Shun* for having to help me in the middle of doing this one. It would be a miracle if my apology isn't seen as a punchline though...
laugh

■ Well, that was a really weird introduction. Once again, there's a good reason for it though...

Postscript

■ Haaaah! Finally, we are at the postscript...

So, how was it? I feel that the content exposes a few of my own personal preferences though... Did I just reveal too much? (Crap!)

■ Ummm, well this just a little bit of supplementary material for this comic... Disposal Duty was a group formed from the need to deter the increasing criminal behavior by teachers, and students are selected as offerings in the process. However, because of possible pregnancy issues, this duty is limited to boys only. Incidentally, for the election process, candidates from the school are nominated based on recommendations by the teachers.

■ About Each Character

Shun Morinaga:

He's the president of class 6-3 and has excellent grades.

He has a cheerful, pleasant personality and has many friends.

His strong desire to be an offering is a little abnormal though. Other than that, he appears to be just a normal boy.

Ezaki Kakeru:

He's my personal favorite laugh Since he is the captain of the swimming team, he is tanned all year round.

That's the reason he looks this way. That's also the reason why his body is slightly muscular compared to the other students. His grades are just slightly above average. Usually, he's a pretty quiet person in class which gives off a somewhat scary impression, though he's really not like that at all.

Ayumi Koike:

■ He's the smallest kid in his class. It doesn't really bother him too much though. His slender, little body is actually what makes him popular with the teachers. laugh His grades are pretty bad though. However, since he is sort of the class mood maker, he has an unusually large amount of friends. He was invited to join Disposal Duty by Shun. Although, since now all he wants is to feel even better, he doesn't mind doing some pretty hardcore stuff.

...Normally, I like to take my time to draw this kind of stuff,

■ but lately I'm really sorry I haven't had the time to do it (Ultimately, I had to decrease the number of pages...). Ah, we appreciate those who come to visit the website, though I'm sorry that we haven't updated in a while... We also appreciate all those that send us encouraging emails by the BBS. Thank you all very much! With my recent fatigue, those things are really the most important encouragement. Last but not least, I want to thank everyone who looked at this book!
