NOT ONLY C.O.C-100, BUT HER HUMAN COMPANIONS AS WELL SEEM TO HAVE...

<<Trivia>>

Totsuka-no-Tsurugi appears often in Japanese mythology. It's not the name of a specific weapon, but rather points to any sword with a length of around 10 fists. Famous swords of this type include Ame-no-Habakiri, which Susanoo used when slaying Yamata-no-Orochi. It is told to have broken during his fight against Orochi, after it hit Kusanagi-no-Tsurugi buried inside the monster's tail.

THE NAME OF THIS TOWN, TOTSUKA-NO-YASHIRO...

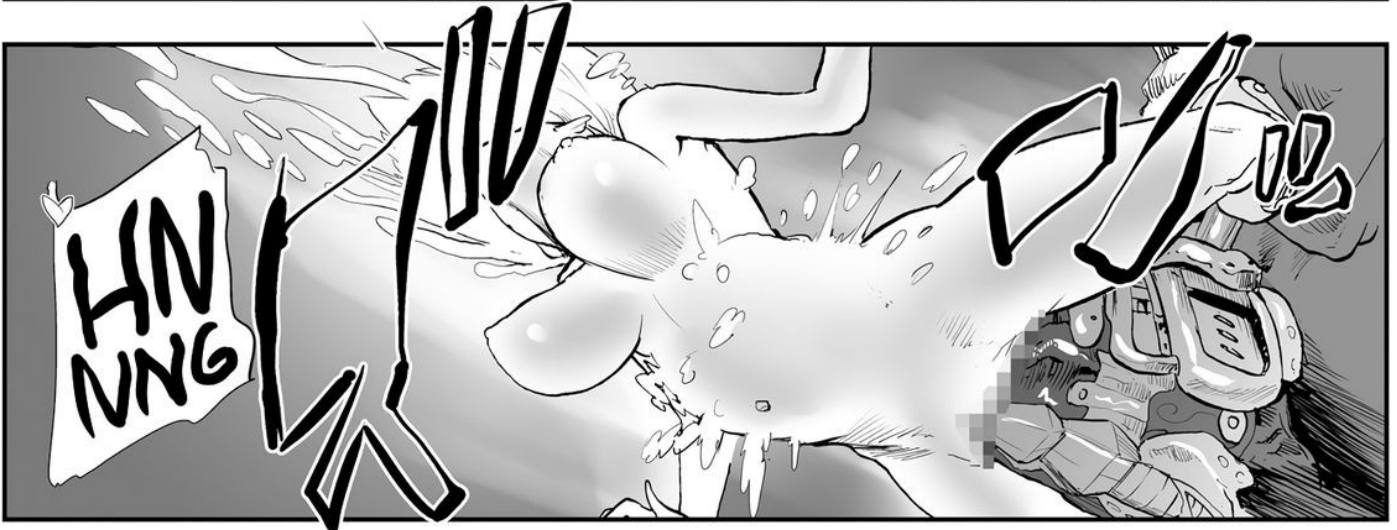

IS MOST LIKELY CONNECTED TO TOTSUKA-NO-TSURUGI OF JAPANESE MYTHOLOGY.
